

FAITH COMMUNICATION IN THE DIGITAL WORLD

YOUNG COMMUNICATORS ANNOUNCEMENT

The Dicastery for Communication of the Holy See is seeking 16 "Young Potentials" to communicate the faith through digital media.

After the fruitful three-year project "Faith Communication in the Digital World", the Dicastery is renewing its commitment to continue the experience of "learning by doing" in a synodal perspective of mutual listening and sharing about how to communicate the faith in the digital world.

AIMS

- To promote best practices of spiritual formation and spread the inspiration for new and effective ways of Faith Communication through digital media.
- To foster the exchange of gifts with regions/countries where the Church faces marginalization; this year, we are focusing primarily on the African continent.
- To build awareness of how Catholics, particularly the younger generation, use digital media in daily life.

ACTIVITIES/COMMITMENT REQUIRED

- Series of pre-scheduled online meetings and individual work assignments for the interim period of April 2024 – February 2025; at least two days a week would be required (one day – mainly Mondays – for lectures and the rest of the time for individual and group work).
- One residential week in Rome in January 2025 for full-time activities (specific dates will be decided after the selection process, travel and other expenses will be covered).

WHY APPLY?

The group of young communicators will be able to:

- Undergo a unique vocational training experience, starting with a pastoral reflection on digital media engagement.
- Participate in a "learning by doing" experience in a synodal dialogue, to foster inclusion and listening to the needs and hopes of people, in line with Jesus' predication and with the Magisterium of Pope Francis.
- Gain both content and communication expertise in using digital media for spiritual and pastoral purposes. They will receive lectures and coaching on specific topics, enabling them to develop practical skills for working in Catholic organizations, institutions, congregations, and local Church provinces to better communicated the faith and to effectively serve the Church's mission.
- Take part in the development of concrete communication plans and tools. They will also participate in a discussion and hands-on activities – together with internationally renowned experts – about best practices for using digital tools in communicating the faith.
- Obtain a certificate of participation in the project "Faith Communication in the Digital World – A Synodal Perspective" from the Dicastery.

SELECTION CRITERIA:

- Maximum 35 years of age.
- Minimum Bachelor degree or equivalent.
- Advanced English skills preferable.
- Experience in communication and digital media.
- Proven creative skills, especially in one of the following areas: communication strategy, visual/graphic design, copywriting.
- A solid Catholic background: the ideal candidate is serving or is willing to serve in a Catholic community in the field of communication.
- A letter of motivation (max 500 words).
- A letter of recommendation from an ecclesiastical authority or a Catholic organization (Catholic universities included).
- Samples of previous and/or present work, i.e., articles written/published, photos, graphics design, and links to other resources.

WHEN/WHERE TO APPLY

No later than March 15th, 2024 by submitting this form.

SELECTION PROCESS

- The Dicastery for Communication will first examine all the applications.
- Selected candidates will be invited to participate in an online interview.
- The final decision will be communicated by e-mail to the 16 chosen candidates by April 10th, 2024.
